

French Polynesia, 10 Days · Tailor-made, fully flexible travel

Tahaa and Bora Bora

Nestled within the Îles Sous-le-Vent (Leeward Islands), which are in turn part of the Îles de la Société (Society Islands) in French Polynesia, lies Tahaa, the definition of paradise on earth. With a total area of just 88 km², Tahaa is home to a veritable cocktail of landscapes dominated by Mount Ohiri, 590 meters high, as well as Polynesian atmospheres that have barely changed over the centuries. In the middle of a lagoon surrounded by an incredible barrier reef, this atoll offers endless possibilities for relaxation or activities such as seabed exploration, fishing, hiking, and more. The main village is Patio, a picturesque town of just a few thousand inhabitants and the center of its main industry, vanilla (in addition to tourism). Why did you think it's called "Vanilla Island"?

Known as the "romantic island," on Bora Bora you can admire the hibiscus trees on the hills and valleys of Mount Otemanu, enjoy perfect white-sand beaches, dive into the deep blue waters, discover one of the most beautiful lagoons on the planet, boasting infinite shades of blue and teeming with magically colored fish and coral... in short, the ideal place to rest and relax. And it's also home to a number of exciting activities, including snorkeling, scuba diving, fishing, cruises, jet skiing, kite surfing, paddleboarding, canoeing, 4x4 tours, hiking, and even an unforgettable helicopter flight!

Important remarks

- Triple rooms in Oceania are generally rooms with twin beds or a double, in which a folding bed is installed to accommodate the third person. Due to the inconvenience this causes, we advise against using this option as far as possible.
- Check-in time at the hotel on the day of arrival depends on each establishment, but in no case will it be before 3:00 p.m., unless otherwise indicated.
- A credit card is considered a guarantee, so sometimes you will need one for check-in at hotels.
- Hotels usually have cots available. Otherwise, babies will have to share a bed with an adult.
- Consult the necessary documentation to enter the destinations visited and for transit in the countries where air stopovers are made.
